

NOTICE

AN APOLOGY:

First, for the lateness of this issue of the JOURNAL. An extensive trip in the summer has put the editor behind in many commitments, including seeing this Journal through the press. Needless to say, we expect to be right up there on schedule by the first of the year.

Second, for the lack of four-color illustrations in this number. This is not intentional but, in fact, is correlated with the problem explained above.

We wish the JOURNAL to reach as broad an audience as possible, and sincerely request the submission of manuscripts from all over the world. Even articles not specifically mentioning LEPIDOPTERA, but of general biological nature, such as population analyses, zoogeographical principles, etc. are welcome. We favor well illustrated articles and can make full color illustrations at very low cost to the author. -----the editor.
